

ITALY RESERVES RIGHT TO REJECT NAVAL PARLEY AGREEMENT

Big 5' MEETS Every Cloud, Etc.

TO MEET ON THURSDAY

Press to Be Admitted to the Session for the First Time; France Wins Agenda Point

"Big Five" at a meeting in St. James' palace today decided to call the roll of nations at Thursday's session, thus giving France the right-of-way over her Italian neighbor.

U. S. HAS NO DEMANDS.

France will present her proposal to limit fleets at a whole and not to separate categories. Great Britain will reserve briefly her preference for category regulation and Italy will then make her plea that the actual relative of fleets should be decided before all else.

The United States and Japan have nothing to propose in this general phase of the discussion.

A committee of two from each delegation will be appointed when the three addresses are finished Thursday to study the situation but it is fully expected the arrangement made by the big five will be approved eventually.

The decision for an open session Thursday was passed when it was introduced by Henry I. Brannan, American Secretary of State. Secretary Brannan insisted that any newspaper man as possible be admitted.

SECRET PARLAYS RESUMED.

The delegations resumed satisfaction after the "Big Five" adjourned.

Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister, who has been using Italian media with France, said he felt Italy had received recognition even if her claim was in secondary place on the agenda.

Immediately after the "Big Five" adjourned, individual conferences were resumed. Prime Minister MacDonald called at the various headquarters and Hugh S. Gibson, American delegate, having lunch with Foreign Minister Grandi.

Afternoon meetings were arranged between the British and Japanese and British and French delegations. The "Big Five" will not meet again until after Thursday's session.

TRUSS ADMITTED.

The delegation decided in principle to admit press representatives Thursday, but the subject was further discussed in the meantime.

The delegates had expressed hope that at the session today they would be able to conclude the general mapping out of the conference agenda.

It was not the simple problem it seemed. Arguments over the admission of certain subjects in plenary sessions have given rise to some of the most vigorous verbal conflicts which have taken place thus far in the week since the conference began.

U. S. INTEREST SLIGHT.

Discussion continued today in some quarters of the French proposal for a security pact in the Mediterranean. Some suggestions were made in all five nations might be invited to participate in the agreement in some form or another.

The United States and Japan, it was said, having only distant relations in the Mediterranean, were probably would be asked to participate only in a purely defensive pact.

Such a pact, it was pointed out, would be a principle laid down in the Kellogg anti-war treaty.

Beyond saying that no definite approach had been made to them on this subject, members of the American delegation declined to comment. Manifestly they regarded the proposal as too unrelated to present stages of the conference deliberations and were reserving any announcement of their position.

Britain, Joining 'World Court', Lets League Rule Its Navy

London, Jan. 28 (AP)—Great Britain today subordinated itself to compulsory jurisdiction of the Permanent Court of International Justice, known as the World Court, and was pledged to accept summons before that tribunal at the request of any other national member.

Fulfilling a pledge made prior to the general election, the Labor Government of Ramsay MacDonald, in a night session of the Commons, forced through ratification of the optional clause of the court's constitution, which gives the court jurisdiction over disputes between nations.

There are only three reserves.

Conference May Adopt N. E. Council Plan

Washington, Jan. 28 (INS)—Activities of the New England Council, an organization formed to promote the economic welfare of the Northeastern States, have attracted nationwide attention and methods of the council may be extended countrywide, Secretary of Commerce Lamont declared today.

He announced a meeting of the council will be held in New York City on January 30 to discuss the relation of regional development to the national and world economy.

Consideration will be given to the development of economic possibilities of the industrial life of New England.

"The work of the council along the line of present research and planned action has been the subject of much favorable comment during the recently concluded business conference inaugurated at the suggestion of President Hoover," Lamont said.

"We have in the Department of Commerce numerous requests from various parts of the country as to the details of the operation of the council, and particularly as to the extent of the support given to its efforts and its recommendations by individual firms."

Sponsored by six New England governors, the council was formed in 1925 as a permanent organization functioning for New England as a unit. The council was created by the legislature, commercial and industrial interests of that section.

ISTS HARBING, SKIPPING CARS SMITH'S IN DRY CLASS

Representative Celler Says They, Dean Pound, Baker Couldn't Fill Mitchell Bill

Washington, Jan. 28 (INS)—Deputizing Atty. Gen. Mitchell's warning to drinkers to get out of the prohibition enforcement service, Rep. Celler (D.) New York, today named four eminent men, who, he said, could not qualify under the Mitchell ruling.

They are: The late President Harding, former Governor Alfred B. Smith of New York, Dean Roscoe Pound, and Ecclesiastical War Member D. Baker, the latter two members of the Wickersham Law Enforcement Commission.

He declined to specify in what particulars they would fail to qualify.

"Under such a ruling," declared Celler, "the late President Harding could not have been a prohibition agent or an official of the government. Neither could Roscoe Pound, dean of the Harvard law school, or former Governor Smith or Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, although both Pound and Baker were members of the Hoover's law enforcement committee."

Named as 'Foe' 17 CONFESS PORT TO ALL PORTS GIL

All Adherents of the Defeated Candidate in Mexico's Presidential Election

Mexico City, Jan. 28 (AP)—Mexico City police claimed today to have frustrated a plot to assassinate President Emilio Portes Gil and the President-elect, Pascual Ortiz Rubio, and seize the Government.

Of 19 persons arrested Valencia Quintana, chief of police, said 17 had confessed. Two women were released, having proved their innocence.

Quintana said the plotters were adherents of Jose Vasconcelos, defeated candidate for the Mexican presidency, who charged after the election last November that the Ortiz-Rubias had taken advantage of certain peculiarities of the Mexican election laws to win from him.

The plot, the police chief added, was to massacre the guard at the Government palace, seize the city and capture it, seize arms at a factory in the center of the city and subsequently terrorize the populace by shooting into the air rockets with a large dynamite charge.

In the confusion the President and President-elect had been shot and the administration arrested.

Some of the arrested persons were students. Senor Quintana, chief of police, said the arrested persons were charged with the crime of treason and punishment by the new government.

February 8, which is the day of the year, one of the prisoners, was charged with being the ringleader. In July, 1928, Gen. Alvaro Obregon, then president, was shot after he had been elected to the presidency. Soon after the election of Ortiz-Rubio he began a return visit to the United States, from which he only recently returned.

The Catholic religion, complaining bitterly of persecution in Mexico, is prospering on this side of the border. Separation of church and state is good, for state and church.

Oregon forbids the use of heavy trucks on public highways. No automobile, truck, trailer or semi-trailer weighing more than 10,000 pounds may use Oregon roads, unless fully equipped with pneumatic tires and highway-preserving idea should spread to other states it would make a difference to tire makers.

Perhaps someone will find a cheap substitute for rubber in heavy tires. And someone else will find out how to make tires that will last long enough to endure any sort of wear safely.

The best news for civilization today travels from Asia, across Europe, over the Atlantic and across the continent, coming from Kenya's headquarters at Angora. For the first time in many years, the children are to be protected from exploitation, through child labor.

Protection, at first, will be limited to children employed in mines and at other hard labor. But the start is made. The Turkish Republic has been asked more promptly than this republic. Child labor prevailed here for 100 years after 1774, and many states, even now, might learn from Kemal Pasha.

Blonde Guest Says Victim of Attack Had Annoyed
Providence Model

Newport, Jan. 28.—Mrs. Frances Learned, 26-year-old divorcee and an attractive ash blonde, revealed in court today further details of the party and fist fight in the home of Dr. Maurice J. Butler here in the early morning of Dec. 16.

Dr. Butler was beaten up by Eugene Spiney and by nobody else, she asserted, and he had the beating "coming to him" because he persisted in paying unwanted attention to Jessie McNally, Providence model, who was ill at the time.

The physician accuses Alderman James P. Cozens, Harold Sheffers, an orchestra leader, Spiney and Miss Learned with having attacked him without cause.

All except Dr. Butler attended a party in Providence the night of Dec. 15. Mrs. Learned testified. They returned here and after stopping at Hotel Viking, where Alderman Cozens lives, went to the home of Dr. Butler.

The doctor wasn't there at the time she said, but they went up stairs to the radio room and when the doctor finally came in they decided to play poker. Miss McNally was taken ill and went to lie down in the doctor's bedroom.

Q.—Was Dr. Butler pleased to find you there? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did Miss McNally play cards? A.—No, she was too sick.

Q.—How long did Dr. Butler play? A.—Not so long; he kept leaving the table and going in to see Miss McNally.

She said she persuaded him several times to leave the girl alone but finally he went in the room and closed the door, she said she followed and tried to gain admittance, but discovered the door was locked.

She then called Spiney who threw his weight against the door and they burst in, she said.

WORKED DOCTOR DOWN

Q.—Did you see Dr. Butler when you entered? A.—No, Spiney and I began looking for him. I thought he was hiding so we looked behind doors and in a closet and under the bed. Suddenly we appeared behind me and struck Spiney on the head. Spiney was sprawling across the room, got up and hit the doctor in the face. I went so fast I couldn't tell how many blows were being struck.

Q.—What did you do? A.—I came to help and the other two men came.

Q.—Where was the doctor then? A.—On the floor.

Q.—Did they finally were calmed down and Spiney got to bed and bathed the doctor's face. Dr. Butler then went down to his study and they got their wraps, took a cab to the Viking and returned to the house about two hours.

There was a huge crowd in the courtroom and many were standing on the lawn outside, peering in.

Primo Clings to Job in Face of Revolt Talk

London, Jan. 28 (AP)—A Reuters dispatch from Madrid late today stated that announcement had been made in the Spanish capital that there was no foundation whatever for reports published abroad that Premier Primo de Rivera had resigned.

The dispatch added that denial also was made of rumors that disorders had broken out at Cadix.

Madrid, Jan. 28 (AP)—(1:30 p. m. Spanish time or 10:50 a. m. E. S. T.) Rumors that Premier Primo de Rivera has resigned were denied here today.

The correspondent for the Associated Press talked with Cadix by telephone this morning and there was no hint then of any revolutionary outbreak.

Primo today continued conferring with high army officers regarding their attitude on continuation or resignation of the present Spanish dictatorship.

Official indications of the reaction of prominent military officers thus far seem favorable for the continuance of Primo as head of the government.

Student disturbances, apparently not of a serious nature, broke out at Barcelona and the universities in Madrid and most of the Spanish cities remained closed as a result of government orders or the action of local authorities because of the students' strike of the last few days.

Gen. Sanjurjo, director of the Guardia Civil; Gen. Barrera, the Captain-General of Barcelona, who arrived at Madrid this morning, and Gen. Arana, minister of the army, were among the army leaders consulted with Primo at today's conference on the situation.

Late this afternoon the situation appeared unchanged from that created by Primo's note Sunday night. He would resign if the army and the navy did not support him.

The latter have so far given no indication of what their attitude will be. Consultations continued late into the afternoon.

WARNS ALL N. H. TOWNS TO CUT EXPENSES

Concord, N. H., Jan. 28 (AP).—The State Tax Commission today called upon every municipality in the state to hold down expenses. Pointing out that 104 towns showed disbursements by $320,000 in 1929, the commission said that in some cases the economy was attributable to careful budgeting but in many others it was, no doubt, due to the sensible realization that the town was spending too much and it was time to call a halt.

For a quarter of a century up to and including 1927, the commission said, "there was a steady, rapid increase in the cost of government in New Hampshire, state, county and municipal."

"This amounted to an average increase of 18 per cent a year. The greater part was due to increase in municipal expenditures. During the same period the assessed value of property increased at an average rate of 12 per cent a year."

"Generally, assessments are up to full value and cannot be moved up at present. In some localities reductions may be necessary. Furthermore, there are few developments in sight that indicate substantial increase in the near future."

Evidence Gone in Sue Brown Raid Case

BY WOOSTER TAYLOR
Universal Service

Salt Lake City, Jan. 28.—What became of the evidence in the Sue Brown case?

Why is there no court record of either its storage or destruction?

In addition to getting 20 per cent of the fine, do dry agents also strip the home brew they seize in such cases?

These questions were validly asked of Monterey officials in the light of the latest disclosure in the celebrated "mail baby" case. They will be repeated with new weight by Mrs. Brown's attorney in Superior Court of Monterey County if her appeal for a new trial is granted.

Former Judge J. A. Hardin, her senior volunteer counsel, stated that he will insist that the three cases of beer taken by U. M. Laughery, in his nocturnal raid on the little home, be actually produced in court.

He also stated that Mrs. Brown's statement that the disordered former, Wesley Owen Patton, had never set foot in her home until a week after he claimed to have bought beer, comes an illuminating revelation.

DEATHS BY STARVATION IN FLOOD ZONE

Vienna, Ind., Jan. 28 (IN)—Times that foreboded disaster pre-empted sections of the southern Indiana flood region today according to figures and reports from those who fear many refugees are starved to death as they huddle in farm houses surrounded by flood waters.

Local officials directing relief work in the area have broadcast urgent appeals for assistance as it is used for communication with isolated points grows more difficult.

More than 500 persons in the area below Mt. Vernon are still cut off from food and supplies. Conditions in this community are appalling, according to reports.

A general lack of smoke from chimneys in this area causes apprehensions. Communities which formerly showed signs of activity now appear lifeless, the airmen report.

Appliances using Vincennes as a base have been sent to forty families suffering from lack of food and fuel near the White river.

Princess Ileana Now Planning Trousseau

Vienna, Jan. 28.—Princess Ileana of Roumania, long considered one of Europe's most beautiful and eligible princesses, who not long ago told newspapermen she despaired of ever getting married, today was planning her trousseau in preparation for her forthcoming marriage to Count Alexander von Hohenberg, second son of the Prince of Pleiss and member of one of Germany's oldest and most aristocratic families.

Rich Gold Strike at Wild River, Alaska

Los Angeles, Jan. 28 (AP)—Ernest Walter Sawyer, assistant to Secretary of the Interior Wilbur, today said he had received word of an apparently rich gold strike in Wild River district of Alaska, near Bettles.

Sawyer said miners have brought out samples that created great interest in Fairbanks and that airplane parties are speeding into the Wild River country word of the strike, and to make preparations for mining in the spring.

Sawyer is in charge of Alaskan development for the Department of the Interior.

princess with the youthful count were climaxed by official news from Bucharest that the betrothal had taken place.

The engagement calls to mind the match-making attempts during the last few years of Princess Ileana's mother, the Dowager Queen Marie of Roumania. While Queen Marie's first wishes undoubtedly were to marry her only unmarried daughter into another reigning house of Europe, it is understood she is highly pleased with the present engagement, as the marriage will link the Roumanian royal family with a line that until the fall of the German empire was one of the most powerful in Central Europe.

One thing that decided Queen Marie in Count Alexander's favor is that his mother, like herself, is an Englishwoman by birth. The should be given to municipalities and states in the leasing of power. "That means that the Secretary of the Interior is able," shouted Morris, "to nullify the most important provision in that law and give every kilowatt of power to the power trust."

Senator Johnson (Rep.) of California, author of the Boulder Dam bill, agreed with Norris and warned that "we will not be slow when the time comes to express our views on this matter, a matter that the solicitor has advised."

BOULDER DAM POWER 'GOING TO TRUST'

Washington, Jan. 28 (AP)—Secretary Wilbur of the Interior Department was charged in the Senate today by Senator Norris (Rep.) of Nebraska, with nullifying the provisions of the Boulder Dam bill now moving to turn the power from the proposed project over to the "water power trust."

The Nebraska read an opinion given by the solicitor of the Interior Department, which held power could be sold to private interests. He called attention to the provision in the Swing-Johnson Boulder Dam act stipulating that preference should be given to municipalities and states in the leasing of power.

"That means that the Secretary of the Interior is able," shouted Morris, "to nullify the most important provision in that law and give every kilowatt of power to the power trust."

Wilkins Plans More Exploration Flights

Deception Island, Antarctica, Jan. 28 (via KUP and S. S. McVillie).—We have made two or three more exploration flights over the ice in our race against the rapid approach of unfavorable weather conditions.

Our research vessel, the William Scoresby, with out Lockheed monoplane on board will leave here today for some point west of Peter Island. That will be our stopping off point for the flight, the weather permitting.

We hope to fly from the edge of the pack ice to new land far south of us. If we can locate suitable ice for this we will equip the plane with times and fly over Ross Sea.

All our plans are overshadowed and conditioned by the weather question. Foolhardy attempts against bad weather at this late season are not warranted. In case of an accident, rescue would be difficult.

Our trip will last about three weeks.

WORLD FLYERS' MARKS NOT MARKED

By GEORGE HANBLEN

With all this talk and action about the world's first flight, there is one subject not even broached, so far as we can learn, although it is next in importance to the memorial to the New England fliers who gave their lives during the war.

We are going to ask another question, and like the one we asked some six or seven weeks ago about the old Boston Airport Corporation, we don't expect to have it answered for some time, but it might start the ball rolling in the right direction.

The question is: How about something to immortalize the landing of the Army world fliers in 1931?

To be sure, they were forced down on the Maine coast by fog while trying to get through to Boston for their first scheduled stop in the United States after their globe-grinding flight.

The little sea coast town where they landed to escape the fog promptly erected a plaque to mark the spot. The next day they were in Boston, landing out in the harbor.

Nothing has been done about making the event a permanent mark in the history of the airport, where we have a nice, big, modern aviation building, bearing commemorative plaques with the names of the boys who died flying for their country during the late unpleasantness. Which is quite as it should be, and if the plaques are as beautiful as the boys who died, they should be.

Raymond told us they were, they should be. But there must be some room somewhere in the building to remember the Army world fliers who flew "heavier-than-air" machines around this old earth.

We are sure that Airport Super Eddie Egan and Park Commissioner Long will act upon this thought immediately. If they haven't come up to the point where they want to put the airport in the hands of some one to be sure that the Boston Airport was the first official stopping place of the world fliers after their epoch-making trip.

And we all back and await the answer.

HANGAR STILL THERE
All the while, the larger repairs in the middle of the air and we haven't heard anything new on the attempt to get Eddie O'Toole's first commercial building back as a museum.

The shack, called O'Toole's "Cottage-by-the-Sea" was removed from the airport, when Colonel's hangar was completed. That company had been using it for an office, and after they moved out, the building was sold.

A movement has been under way to get it back again, and establish as a museum, containing pictures and so forth of the boys who started on the airport and have since drifted away to other jobs.

O'Toole is at present working with the Moth Company at Lowell in the capacity of service manager and reports that the factory is being moved to St. Louis, where it will be combined with the Curtiss-Robertson outfit.

So, here are three things which demand action, and we await this action—removal of the old hangar before someone gets hurt, memorial to the world fliers, and in the case of the old shack, that something be done to relieve the suspense.

SEA FLYING
Winter trials and tribulation with water flying have evidently failed to deter Bill Wright, Rockland seaplane base manager for Curtiss-Wright. Bill went down to New York and took delivery of a brand new, 100-horsepower, 200-horsepower Whirlwind, and stopped in Boston over night.

He had a wild tale to tell about a flight into the middle of the State of Maine, and we will try and get it for you for tomorrow, because of its good reading possibilities.

Student work in Rockland continues, and when the weather is too cold for seaplane flying the land ships are pressed into more service.

A. S. Discovery, Antarctica, Jan. 23 (delayed)—On the morning of Jan. 23 the sky cleared sufficiently to take sights accurately. Fixing the ship's position, we found that the Discovery had been driven by the gales 150 miles to the WSW.

The two-pack margin was pushed a few miles farther south than when it was examined a week ago. Improved conditions of wind and sea allowed our progress again to the eastward.

In the early morning water Chief Officer Macdonald sighted new land, or a land-ice extension, to the south of latitude 66.50, longitude 46.00 east. This is evidently a southerly prolongation of that land sighted by Enderby.

With everything favorable for further land discovery westward, we reluctantly pursued our course toward the east, for, as explained to Capt. Riser Larsen of the Norwegian, our sphere of operations, as defined by our sailing instructions, lies east of longitude 40 east and we could under no conditions proceed west of that limit.

In latitude 66.22, longitude 48.20 east we passed the tip of that mighty ice tongue, which with its cliffs of up to 200 feet high, extends southeast to join the land.

Today we steamed as close as the top-peak allowed, striking a rock mass in latitude 66.13, longitude 52.20 east, which rises from front to a height of 1500 feet. Most of the northern part of this rock mass, from sea to summit, overlooking black, is of a color suggesting the concentration of guano from countless numbers of nesting birds.

Clocks of Antarctic petrels sped up this sanctuary to investigate the Discovery. We are now continuing east along the coast.

In this region the sea floor rises from 1000 fathoms within four miles to the continental shelf of 170 fathoms, where it is richly covered with varied forms of life, an amazing quantity of which was secured by our biologist.

Frees Ex-Burglar Who Crossed Sea Alone

New York, Jan. 26 (AP)—A British dispatch to the New York Times says that Paul Muller, known to Americans for his trip across the Atlantic in a small sailing boat, was acquitted of a charge of burglary in Kopenhagen.

Muller had served 20 years in jail on similar charges, when after his last term, hoping to wipe clean his slate with some extraordinary deed, he went to Mungoes and purchased a boat for $150 to cross the ocean.

A minute after he paid the price, the boat was sunk and Muller barely escaped drowning. Enraged he broke into the shipyard and destroyed the shipyard's own boat. He then bought another boat and left Cuxhaven July 6, 1926, and reached the Canary Islands and later Cuba.

He told the court he had been well treated in the United States, particularly at Charleston, S. C., where residents brought over his finances from Germany and had him married there in great style.

In a new boat, purchased by Charleston, he started for New York, but the boat was lost in a storm after 16 days at sea. He then returned home with his young wife.

His story in court made a deep impression. The prosecutor admitted the so-called burglary was not real because Muller had not attempted to steal anything. Even the shipyard owner offered his hand to Muller and the judge acquitted him.

Do you suffer from constipation? Are you one of those who have tried one "read pocket cure" after another and still have no sense of permanent relief? If so, this is big news to you! Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is a natural, effective relief for both temporary and recurring constipation. It is the original and today is included in the diets of millions of people who formerly suffered from constipation.

When roughage is missing from food, constipation is the consequence. The soft foods we eat today seldom include enough roughage. The simple necessity, then, is to see to it that sufficient roughage is included in our food.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is the bulk that your system requires. In addition, it is rich in iron. Scientific research proves that nearly all this iron is absorbed by the system, building red blood and bringing the glorious color of health to the complexion.

Sandino was quoted as saying he had 200 loyal followers awaiting his return and that he would take up his campaign where he left off last June when he went to Merida after his hands had been dispersed by American marine forces.

APRIL BRIDAL FOR ELEANOR HOLTON

MISS ELEANOR HOLTON, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Henry Holton of Beacon st., has chosen April 12 as the date of her marriage to Dr. Reginald Smithwick, son of Dr. and Mrs. Marston P. Smithwick of Auburn court, Brookline. The ceremony is to be performed by Dr. Bradford, in the Old South Church, at high noon, and a reception is to follow at the Algonquin Club. Miss Holton attended Miss May's school, and made her formal bow to society at a luncheon during the season of 1927, when she was also elected to membership in the Junior League. She is well known as a tennis player. Following his graduation at Phillips Andover Academy, Dr. Smithwick attended the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and from thence continued his education at the Harvard Medical school where he received his degree in 1928. Their engagement was announced at a tea given by Mr. and Mrs. Holton, at their summer home in Swampscott, on Oct. 6.

THE REGULAR JANUARY meeting of the Junior League's Garden Club was held at the league headquarters on Commonwealth ave. yesterday afternoon. Their program consisted of a prize competition in arrangements of winter decorations with the use of gourds, berries, forced flowering shrubs, dried grasses or bulbs. The February meeting is to take the form of a lecture to which all league members are invited. For that matter all the organization's members who love flowers are eligible for the club and will be admitted to membership as vacancies occur, provided their application is received by January 31. Mrs. J. T. Walker, Jr., accompanied by two sisters, was the guest of honor. The Scribblers Club also met yesterday and among the many attendances were three new members, namely, Miss Eleanor Hunniman, Miss Mary Thompson, and Mrs. Hugh O'Neill Henchman, who, since coming to Cambridge to live, has transferred from the League she had been a member of in Boston. Members of the two clubs enjoyed tea together afterwards.

A GROUP OF OIL PAINTINGS by Alicia Atkinson, talented Junior League member, entitled "Impressions of New York," is the current exhibition at the league rooms. They are very modernistic and clever, the majority of them portraying such scenes as the audience and stage during a performance in the theater or opera. Then, too, there are varied subjects, such as the interior of a restaurant or cabaret crowded with people. New York's skyline of gigantic buildings and the elevated, today the second of a course of four lectures on finance is to be given in the rooms at 4 o'clock. Miss Susan Sturges is to introduce the speaker, L. D. Seaver of the First National Bank, who has agreed to be "Brimo on a Checking Account." The other two talks on finance will come on February 4 and 11—the first of these, "Investments," will be delivered by James White of Seaboard, Stevens and Clark, the latter one, entitled "Trust Departments," will be given by Leon Little of the New England Trust Co. On one occasion, Miss Elizabeth Blackpole will preside and on the other the duties will be performed by Miss Ellen Whitely.

CONSIDERABLE ENTERTAINING is being done for those entered in the women's national indoor tennis tournament.

Mrs. Channing Frothingham, Serita Bartlett and Mr. Channing Frothingham are among the enthusiastic skaters often seen on the ice at the Country Club in Brookline.

ment which is taking place this week on the Longwood Cricket Club's covered courts. Mrs. F. K. Godfrey gave a luncheon yesterday. Today, Mrs. George Wightman, many times national tennis champion, was hostess at a similar affair, while tomorrow, Miss Edith Bingham is to give her tennis match in a similar manner. Thursday evening the whole crowd is to be present at a dinner. All of these parties are being held in the clubhouse.

MISS BARBARA HARRIST, of Bloomfield of Longwood Towers, Brookline, and Arnold Seton Wood of Long Island, New York, were married by the Rev. Ralph M. Harper at the Church of Our Saviour in Brookline last evening. The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. E. F. Tilton of West Newton, who was the matron of honor, and Miss Florence Allen of Manchester-by-the-Sea as the maid of honor. The best man was Thomas H. Asch-off of New York, and the group of bridesmaids included Everett Staff of East Orange, N. J., a Colgate graduate, Ernest Francis Tilden, Dartmouth '21, Harold Alling Thomas, Wellesley, and William C. Allen of Manchester-by-the-Sea. The bride, given in marriage by her father, Harry Norman Bloomfield of Longwood Towers and Manchester, was a wedding dress of white satin with a long train, all-hoisted, princess style, and carried a bouquet of call lilies. The matron of honor and the maid of honor wore nice green taffeta gowns, also princess style, and carried bouquets of Tullianum.

IMMEDIATELY FOLLOWING the ceremony, a reception was held at Longwood Towers in the ballroom, which was attended by 200 guests and was beautifully decorated with palms, Tullianum roses and spring flowers. A buffet supper was served, followed by dancing. Mrs. Wood is prominent at the Corinthian Yacht Club at Marblehead, where her summer home is located. The engagement was announced last April. Mrs. Wood is a graduate of Abbott '28, and of Miss Becker's school '28. Mr. Wood's college affiliations are Stevens Institute and Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He is the son of Mrs. Marion Shotwell Wood of Long Island, New York. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Norman Bloomfield of Longwood Towers are entertaining house guests, including Mrs. Marion Wood, Mrs. Belle Shotwell, Miss Della Shotwell, George Duffield, Everett Staff, Thorne Aschhoff, Miss Florence Allen. Mr. and Mrs. Wood will make their home at Sunny-side, Long Island, New York.

THE REV. W. H. DEWART, of Bay State rd. and Maychester-by-the-Sea, and his son, Russell, are leaving tonight for a week's sojourn to Pinehurst, North Carolina, where golf and riding reign supreme. The rector emeritus of the Old North Church and his family have a penchant for traveling. The Dewarts have spent several years on the continent. Three years ago the family spent the winter in Oxford, England.

Medbury Says--

BY JOHN F. MEDBURY.

ACCORDING to marital statistics, 10,000 women were left waiting at the church last year, and a lot of them are still there. One girl went around so long she became an old maid.

She expected to be a June bride, but when the following November she began to worry.

But she isn't going to let the groom make a fool out of her, she says she'll wait a couple of months more and then go home.

She's already worn out three trousseaus.

She ought to take the orchids out of her bridal bouquet and use century plants.

The groom promised to meet her at 12:30 and when December came around she got suspicious.

She's worried because she's already spent her alimony. It serves her right; she shouldn't count her husband before they're matched.

She's beginning to think that the groom took the livelihood in her eyes for a danger signal.

Most dames are smart; they won't wait over 10 minutes at any church. When the time's up, they stop the wedding bells and blow a police whistle.

Lace Appears in Its Charming Role at Every Smart Afternoon and Evening Party; Adds Much To Spring Mode

LACE and the lady—an enchanting combination—for each seems made for the other! Few fabrics add so much to the lovely and feminine illusion with which the smart woman surrounds herself this season.

Small wonder then, that lace appears in its charming role at every smart afternoon and evening party—or that no one who values her reputation for chic, would think of being without one lace costume.

The sheer, supple weaves of Chantilly, Alencon and Spanish lace are chosen to give a delicate interpretation to the long lines and flowing draperies of the spring mode.

The lovely gown pictured is of maize color lace—the décolletage deeper in back, the small tailored belt worn at normal waistline and fastened with rhinestone buckle. The skirt is ankle length and the lapping upper ruffle gives added grace. The separate jacket boasts long sleeves and makes the costume very versatile indeed.

Lace frocks are the costume par excellence at the Southern resorts, and are usually seen in pastel tones.

Off-white shades have no long been given first place in the evening mode that the appearance of plain unadorned white has made that color for lack of its newly important, an entire new and sheer fabric it appears on all formal occasions. Silver slippers are smartly worn with it.

There is no more vivid contrast in the mode at the present moment than the hilarious boyishness of beach fashions and the subdued, almost haughty formality of the evening mode.

One really has to lead a dual life in order to appear in the properly nonchalant atmosphere of the beach, and then by the mere change of costume become an austere old-fashioned girl of the evening. It is rather fun, though, especially when fashion gives one every opportunity to make the change with the utmost grace.

A NEW jeweler's vanity case just imported from Paris is most unique in design. The case is modern in outline and is made with powder and rouge to be carried inside while the lipstick is held in a little roll at the end of the case. It comes in gold.

DARK blue enamel is one of the newest notes in antique jewelry design. The dark richness of the enamel is used in striking contrast with rose diamonds and gold. For instance, a diminutive watch.

very clever brooch fashioned like a beetle combines yellow gold with blue enamel work, an intricate design being worked out in the diamonds. A tiny spring releases the wings to reveal a diminutive watch.

She's beginning to think that the groom took the livelihood in her eyes for a danger signal.

Most dames are smart; they won't wait over 10 minutes at any church. When the time's up, they stop the wedding bells and blow a police whistle.

LAYS 4 DEATHS TO WOMAN IN WILL FIGHT

Chicago, Jan. 28 (AP)—Suits to break the will of the late John B. Murphy, vice president of the Knickerbocker Company, have been filed by Mrs. Sarah Carroll, of Milwaukee, Wis., a half sister.

The bill charges that Mrs. Mary Dunn Murphy of Chicago, accused wife of the plumbing manufacturer, conspired to inherit his estate, valued at $1,000,000.

A representative of Mrs. Murphy said the charge was absurd and she was preparing to bring action against Mrs. Carroll for damages she said she suffered as a result of the suit.

The charges against Mrs. Murphy set forth that she "caused, or aided by wrongful and skillful acts," the deaths of Murphy, his first wife, and their two sons, John B. Jr. and Hallett.

Murphy died last November at the age of 72. The records of the health department say death resulted from "cancer of the mouth and neck."

Mrs. Rose Murchie, the first wife, died June 2, 1922, two days after an appendicitis operation. Records further show that Hallett Murphy died in a Nile, Mich., sanatorium, Jan. 11, 1927. He was 38 years old and death was attributed to alcoholism.

No record was found in the death record of John B. Jr., but the complaint of Mrs. Carroll set out that death resulted from wounds inflicted "by a gun fired by a woman." The only date given was "some time" after his father's death, in June, 1923, while the bill charges that "again the funeral was private and the location was suppressed by Mrs. Murphy."

Jersey Man to Speak at Middlesex Dinner

Congressman Charles A. Eaton of New Jersey will be the principal speaker at a dinner of the Middlesex Club in Hotel Statler, February 17, which will be attended by 1000 persons.

Other speakers include Gov. Frank O. Allen, President J. Edgar Hoover, and Mrs. J. Edgar Hoover. Mrs. Eaton will represent the Governor's Council, which will represent women in politics and law. Robert T. Bushnell of Middlesex County.

Robert L. O'Brien is president of the public organization of Middlesex County.

The bill charges that Mrs. Mary Dunn Murphy of Chicago, accused wife of the plumbing manufacturer, conspired to inherit his estate, valued at $1,000,000.

A representative of Mrs. Murphy said the charge was absurd and she was preparing to bring action against Mrs. Carroll for damages she said she suffered as a result of the suit.

The charges against Mrs. Murphy set forth that she "caused, or aided by wrongful and skillful acts," the deaths of Murphy, his first wife, and their two sons, John B. Jr. and Hallett.

Murphy died last November at the age of 72. The records of the health department say death resulted from "cancer of the mouth and neck."

Mrs. Rose Murchie, the first wife, died June 2, 1922, two days after an appendicitis operation. Records further show that Hallett Murphy died in a Nile, Mich., sanatorium, Jan. 11, 1927. He was 38 years old and death was attributed to alcoholism.

No record was found in the death record of John B. Jr., but the complaint of Mrs. Carroll set out that death resulted from wounds inflicted "by a gun fired by a woman." The only date given was "some time" after his father's death, in June, 1923, while the bill charges that "again the funeral was private and the location was suppressed by Mrs. Murphy."

A Wonderful Love Story by Author of 'Hollywood Girl,' 'Easy.'

What Has Happened Before: Tom Nicholson and his young and beautiful wife are happy with their baby and they hang out with wealthy neighbors, the Aldermans, come into their lives. Tom, whose husband is elderly, has an affair with a man named Jack. Lovejoy takes Tom to a card party at the Aldermans. There she comes to look after the baby. Lovejoy is amused to discover Norrie's fondness for Tom. Steve Okeley, Lovejoy's former sweetheart, is present. When Tom receives attention from another girl, Lovejoy is furious. She asks Steve to kiss her. She wants to get even with Tom. Next morning mutual recriminations take place. Tom sympathizes Norrie Shanes on her appearance. Lovejoy is pained.

Now Go On With the Story.

CHAPTER 14
"YOU look messy. And the paint 'on your mouth has slipped." Tom said with the brutal frankness of a husband.

He picked up his coffee from the tray that Norrie had set on the table beside his bed. But while he did it, he kept his narrowed eyes on Lovejoy's face.

"Late hours and liquor and lipstick don't improve your looks the least bit, my girl," he added flatly.

Lovejoy, glaring at him, crawled back into her own bed with her coffee cup in her hand.

"Thanks for the coffee, Norrie," she said to Norrie Shanes in a voice that had an edge like a sharp knife. "But the door when you go out. Shut it?"

Lovejoy's eyes followed her. Of course, Norrie did it. A carefully neat and clean in that crackling white uniform of hers. She had the shining spotless look that any well-groomed nurse has. But merciful heavens, she wasn't the least bit pretty! She would look like the tag-end of a hard winter if she weren't as neat as a new pin. Lovejoy told herself with extreme bitterness.

"I tell you why you think you look so fine," Tom said. "Because she's got each word. 'Because' she says some Chinese language work to do up her uniform. And because she has a lot of time to fix her nails and wash her face and cold cream and hair. Her anger seemed to mount higher and higher with every word she spoke. She set the coffee cup down on the bedside table and clenched her hands.

"If she had to get up at six every morning to get ready for a baby she wouldn't look so slick!" she went on. "If she had to wash all the washing and ironing and cooking and cleaning for a family."

She stopped, choking with the warm tears that came flooding up to her throat and eyes.

"You talk about painting paint I have on," she said with a sob. "I haven't have put on a thing since all time. All time told me how pale and worn-out I looked last for months what been telling me for months what a fool I am to slave the way I do."

"—and she's dead right!" Tom said, not going to do it any longer. "She broke down completely, bursting into tears of self-pity. Covering her pale face with her hands, she waited for Tom to come and put his arms around her as he always had when they quarreled.

But this time he did not do it. Peeking through her fingers after a minute or two, she saw that he was calmly pouring himself a second cup of coffee.

"Well, I'm sold out," she gasped, looking at him. "He didn't care whether she cried or not. He didn't care whether she was sad and overworked and worried about all the time she had to spend on her wife, she told herself, and he was looking at her with a cold, indifferent stare."

He had a restless night, according to doctors, and showed some improvement over yesterday.

Bishop Babcock Is Slightly Improved
Although Bishop Samuel G. Babcock is reported resting comfortably at City Hospital, his name is still on the danger list as a result of the injury he suffered when struck by an automobile on January 13.

He had a restless night, according to doctors, and showed some improvement over yesterday.

He is getting out of his bed, according to him. "I'm in a much better condition of mind of a maid to help me (with) the work around here. I'm going to get one tomorrow and stay until you have to have me. I'm not to pay her! Now, just what I want to do, because I can't let her stay. He is doing nothing to that. Nothing at all."

He is setting down his cup and is picking up his book. "That's right, too! You don't see I'm a man—me—you heard me?" Lovejoy asked at last. "But our lot that I'm dirty and messy and third-looking now. It's all right."

THREE BIG EVENTS PLANNED TO AID TROY FUND Demands 10-Minute Service on 'L' Lines in 2 Districts

NIGHT SHOW BOOSTS TROY FUND

Bowling Contest and Hockey Games Also Arranged to Aid Policeman's Kin

Three big events are planned this week for the benefit of the Troy fund being raised by Joseph W. Bennett of East Boston in cooperation with the Boston Evening American.

Tomorrow night a bowling championship contest will be held in the Seville Bowling alley, under the auspices of the Boston Evening American and the Boston Police Association.

Friday night the new B. Keith theatre will present for the first time in New England the musical comedy success, "Hit the Deck," which swept New York in a great musical talkie form. This will be a midnight show.

Saturday night the Tigers, Canadian-American league champions, will battle the New Haven hockey team at the Boston Garden at 8:30 o'clock. The Garden management has given permission for a collection for the Troy fund.

The midnight show at the new Keith theatre will be the outstanding event of the Troy fund campaign. Tickets went on sale last night, and by midnight several hundred reservations had been made in person and by telephone. Fully $5,000 is expected from this show.

"Hit the Deck" was one of the outstanding musical comedy successes of 1932. It was shown in the photoplay version, with the Jerry Jack Oakie and the popular singer, Al Jolson.

Keith's has announced that the usual seating plan will prevail for the show. All seats will be reserved and the show will start promptly at 11:45 o'clock and last about two hours.

The combined employees of the two Keith houses, numbering about 75, will give their services free for the fund. This includes the specially organized and mounted bands.

BOWLING AID CAUSE
The original play was by Vincent Younan, and some of the songs are incorporated. The theme song is "Hit the Deck."

The first show took place on the side of New York to see "Hit the Deck" in this new form.

Another benefit show, which is drawing attention is a bowling match between policemen and firemen. This will be held in the Seville Bowling alley. East Boston will bring the match.

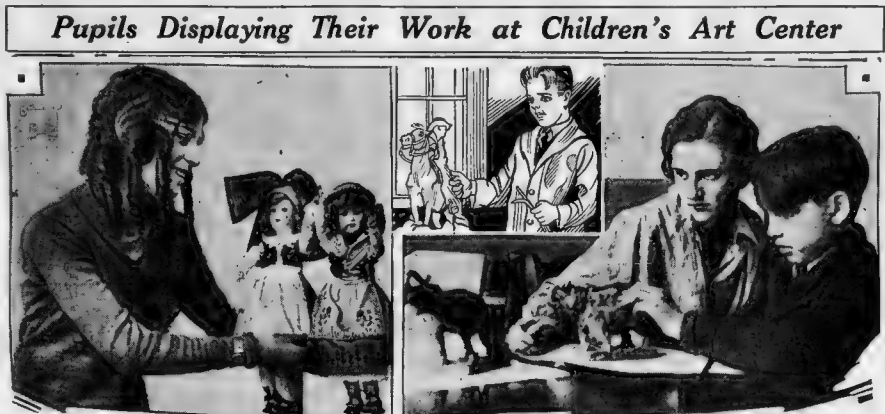

Manager Gagnon has announced that he will give the match proceeds from all alleys for the fund. In addition to the sum to be realized from the match.

The lineup of the two teams will be completed today. The frame race is a sight to see.

The Troy fund benefit relayed by Bennett's committee was the first of three separate funds now under way. It was recently awarded by $250 from the benefit show at the Central St. Theatre and $100 from the Broadway Theatre.

Grace Levine admiring French dolls in provincial costumes at the Children's Art Center in Rutland, N. H. The school has 33 pupils, of whom 20 are boys. Statuettes of interest to the children are now on exhibition at the center.

Elephants and Lions Modelled by Boys

There are elephants over at the Children's Art Center in Rutland, N. H. South End.

Lions, also, and camels and tigers and dogs—but mostly elephants—and the boys and girls are not afraid of them at all. They either have made or are making them.

Now their work is on exhibition and proud they are of their handiwork.

Boys may like dogs as live pets but when it comes to modelling in clay they run principally to elephants. It was revealed today at the art center by Miss Julia Corey, their capable instructor.

Some remarkable work in clay is being done by the youngsters in the classes, 30 of them boys and three of them girls.

"Animals are their favorites in modeling," said Miss Corey, "and, strange as it may seem to persons who know how boys love dogs as companions, the elephant is their favorite when it comes to modeling. I permit them to model all the elephants they wish, as they get most out of doing the work that interest them."

According to Miss Margaret Glover, director of the art center, many of the youngsters are highly talented in their work being on a par with that of older students in many ways.

In addition to modeling, daily instruction is given in drawing and carpentry and there is a story-telling hour, during which tales of the world's heroes are related to the children.

In addition to the children's center at the art center is an exhibition of statues by Banksia Paetz which are of special interest to youngsters.

Many charming water colors, clever pen and ink drawings and other handiwork are on display at the center.

Of absorbing interest to the young girls who go there is a cabinet filled with French dolls, dressed in native costumes. The "oh" and "ahs" emitted in front of this cabinet are many as the girls minutely examine the dolls.

Under the capable leadership of Miss Glover, the Children's Art Center is attracting more and more children weekly to join the classes in modeling, drawing and carpentry. It costs only 25 cents to take the courses. Hundreds of youngsters have developed a keen appreciation of art as a result of visiting the art center or of studying there.

Father, Victim of Fate, Asks Work to Keep Family
Fate dealt a Brooklyn father his worst blow when it caused him to fall while at work as a painter and brought on a tendency to disfigure which makes it impossible for him to follow his trade.

McKenna in his family of six had already eaten up all his savings. He has been out of since his injury, last November. And so his four hungry children, all under 8, a fifth will soon be added.

Because he has not lived in Brooklyn 12 months, the town cannot aid him and he told his story to the Boston Evening American today, hoping that somewhere there is work for him so that he can provide for his family. Although he gave his name and address, he asked that these be not used.

DEFIANCE PUTS Coin Return Device on Pay Phones Asked

Legislation to compel the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company to equip coin boxes with devices for returning coins when the instrument is out of order was urged at a legislative hearing today by Representative Luke D. Mullen of Charlestown.

The speaker complained that the company is so bound up in developing the art of telephony in its broader aspects that it has neglected to attempt the solution of some of the mechanical necessities at home.

"If the perfection of the art of telephony will soon make it possible to talk with Australia, China and the ends of the earth, it should be but child's play for the company to equip its coin boxes with a device for returning coins."

Robichead had been summoned because he had failed to carry out an order to tear down a garage in the rear of his home which he erected without a building permit.

When Robichead appeared in court Judge Revere asked him if he had torn the building down. "No, your honor, and I haven't the slightest intention of doing so," he replied.

Judge Revere promptly imposed a $100 fine, marking as he did so: "Every day from now on that the building is standing you will be fined $100."

Then started a wordy argument between the judge and the defendant when Judge Revere ordered Robichead committed.

The jury in selecting the most outstanding material in the exhibit, which is made up of newspaper and magazine advertising appearing in 1932, will begin its deliberations Thursday, after which the public will not be admitted. Winners will be announced at a dinner in their honor at the Harvard Business School late in February.

He pointed out that despite the large number of automobiles and trucks, 50,000 horses were reported in Massachusetts in 1932, and that nearly 8,000 are in Boston.

At the West Farm for Horses in Methuen the largest number of horses during any six month was 12, the smallest 22.

Representative McDonough Scores Service Now Given in Jamaica Plain, Roslindale

Legislation to compel the Elevated to maintain 10-minute service on routes in Boston which serve a population of more than 10,000 persons was urged today by Representative McDonough of Boston.

The speaker claimed that service in Jamaica Plain and Roslindale is so poor that residents are moving out of these districts.

He said the situation has been called to the attention of the trustees, but that conditions have not been remedied. The bill provides a penalty of $10 a day for violations of its provisions.

The measure was condemned as unconstitutional and unwise by E. Ware Barnum, attorney for the Elevated, who said that he said, go along with Washington street, under the Elevated structure and merely duplicate the rapid transit service.

Even when run at 20-minute intervals, Barnum said, the lines have been a losing proposition.

The production, written jointly by Fern M. Morse, 21, Boston, and Paul, 31, Newton, will be presented at the Arlington Street Theatre, March 20.

Among the players are: John, 34, North White Lake, N. Y., who will sing the main songs for the comedy, the author, and Thomas R. Hall, 31, Falmouth, co-ordinator in writing the music and lyrics.

Blaze Near School Gives Pupils Thrill

More than 200 pupils in the Hancock primary school, on Standford street, had the thrill of their lives today as they watched a fire in the schoolhouse.

The fire broke out in the schoolhouse at 11:30 a. m. and was extinguished in an hour with a fire in the building. The cause of the fire was not determined.

Barney Gordon, owner of the building, who was working in the store on the street floor, the fire caused damage estimated at $1500.

Artists See Flock of 1000 Ducks Land at Chestnut Hill

Attracting the attention of scores of motorists who stopped to view the spectacle, more than 1000 lake ducks settled down on the lawn of Chestnut Hill, near Chestnut Hill.

The ducks were apparently exhausted from a long flight and landed wearily out of the sky. As soon as they had settled, they waddled to the edge of the lawn and began feeding in the water. The ducks were very tame and many motorists apparently were not afraid of them.

U. S. HAS BEST PLAN TO CURB DRUG PERIL

SEEK TO CUT PRODUCTION TO LIMIT

Would Permit Only Enough to Supply Basic Needs of Medicine

By WINIFRED BLACK

Universal Service
San Francisco, Jan. 28.—Just enough "dope" manufactured in the whole world for the legitimate use of doctors and scientists—and not one pound, or one ounce, or one grain more.

That is the American plan for the control of the narcotic menace, and today the news from Geneva looks as if the American idea may be at least considered with some show of impartial justice, by the League of Nations option advisory committee.

The sub-committee, which was appointed to consider ways and means of carrying such a plan into practical use, seems to be a good working body.

Switzerland, Germany, Japan, France, Great Britain, India, Holland, Italy, are all represented, and John Kenneth Caldwell, the American, has been asked to "sit in" as an unofficial observer.

Cavaliers of Italy is sure to hold that committee down to business as long as he is in it. Italy does not raise opium and it does not manufacture any kind of narcotic drugs, and Italy is determined to keep the dope out of Italy—no matter where else it creeps like a slimy snake.

JAPAN IN FIGHT
Japan seems to be making a good straight fight for real control of the culture and manufacture of dope.

Germany, France, Switzerland, Great Britain, India and Holland are all in the dope traffic up to their elbows, and it is very interesting to see exactly how they are going to meet the plain, practical American plan of pain, practical limitation.

It seems rather a pity that China is not represented on the sub-committee—China is making a desperate effort to throw off the yoke of dope slavery.

I wonder if the Swiss delegate will bring his personal address to the sessions of the sub-committee—the gentleman who sat next to him during all the sessions of the last option conference.

Very intelligent and practical person, this particular gentleman. He ought to know something about the drug trade; he is the head of one of the great drug-making and drug-exporting firms of Switzerland.

There are just 41 great narcotic drug factories on earth and one-quarter of one narcotic drug factory can turn out enough dope to supply and deprive the entire world.

Big business will have representative somewhere within easy reach of that sub-committee—be sure of that.

Whether the sub-committee will pay attention to big business will determine the next step in the fight against dope or not remains to be seen.

"ESTER" A PROBLEM
Takes the little matter of the "ester."

Do you know what an ester is? I never heard of one in my life until now.

An ester is an important drug that can be exported and imported freely.

Dares Death in Leap

Hundreds of feet below, in the cold depths of a crevasse, death awaits this Swiss mountain climber, snatched in the very act of spanning the menace by one desperate leap. If he misses the rope may hold him—then again it may not. (A. P. photo.)

It is not morphine at all, it's an "ester."

FORBIDDEN BY JAPAN
There are all kinds of "esters," scores and scores of them—simple little idea isn't it?

Japan does not like the "esters." Japan forbids the manufacture and importation of "esters."

At the last option conference, an earnest British delegate raised the question of "esters."

He said the situation was grave and he asked that benzoyl-morphine be put on the list of drugs controlled by the convention.

Good honest gesture, wasn't it? The only trouble about that idea is that benzoyl-morphine is just one "ester" and there are 90,000 other "esters" pouring gaily out of the factories daily like water pouring from a broken fire hydrant.

What will the new sub-committee do about the "esters?" Let's watch and see.

Vote Fund for Muddy River Improvement
Co-operation between Boston and Brookline in the improvement of Muddy river and Levever pond is now assured as the City Council has voted approval of Mayor Curley's order for the expenditure of $50,000 on the project.

As the improvement will be to the greater benefit of Brookline, that town will spend $70,000 of the entire cost, amounting to $120,000, necessary to clean and dredge the pond and the river.

The work is the result of conferences between Chairman William P. Loring of the Boston park commission and the Brookline selectmen during the past six years.

DETECTIVE IS SHOT BY THUGS DURING HOLDUP

New York, Jan. 28 (AP)—A detective who walked into a drug store on upper Broadway early to day and make a purchase while a holdup was in progress was shot and seriously wounded when he disregarded the command of the two men to put up his hands.

The detective, Dennis J. Mahoney, 38, had just completed his tour of duty and was on his way home across the street from the drug store. As he entered the store he saw two men, pistols in hand, looking at the cash register.

Disregarding their order of "hands up" he grappled with the nearest one. The other then fired two shots, both of which struck Mahoney. Thugs then fled with $500. Despite his wounds, Mahoney walked across the street to his home, told his mother to call a physician and then collapsed.

In Dressing Rooms of Prima Donnas

New light on immortal artists of the Opera comes from Elise Freisinger, their costumer. She tells intimately about them through Mary Lawton, whose Schumann-Heink delighted the world.

"AIDA" was about to be sung by the Metropolitan Opera Company. A prima donna, assigned to the rôle of priestess, raged against the loose robe her nervous costumer provided for her and cried out: "I will have it tight—if I can't show my figure I won't go on!"

It is one of hundreds of intimate stories which now come to you about temperamental opera stars.

In February Good Housekeeping begins Stars & Scissors, the story of Elise Freisinger, who costumed Patti, Bernhardt, Caruso, Duse, Pavlowa, Mrs. Fiske, the Barrymores, and many other stage celebrities. It will be talked about everywhere. Be the first to read it.

CAMPBELL-RISKO BOUT BARRED

New York, Jan. 28 (AP)—The New York State athletic commission today refused to sanction the Victorio Campbello-Johnny Risko bout scheduled at Madison Square Garden, Feb. 7, on the ground that Risko is not a fit opponent for the big South American.
 William Muldoon, veteran commission, declared such a bout "would be too one-sided and would be a reputation to the state of New York." Muldoon and his colleagues felt that Campbello is too big for Risko. They pointed out that there are plenty of approved heavyweights available, and that Campbello should pick on somebody like that.
 There is a difference of about 20 pounds in weight and eight inches in height between the two. In the present Primrose-Campbello bout, which was duly sanctioned, Campbello weighed less than 200 pounds.

Green Boxer Badly Hurt in Bout

Hanover, N. H., Jan. 28.—William A. Allen, Jr., of New York city and captain of the Dartmouth boxing team, is reported to be suffering a concussion of the brain as a result of a knockout when the Green boxer met the Navy at Annapolis on January 15.
 Allen, boxer in the 145-pound class and returned to class the day after the bout, but was later sent to Dick House, the college infirmary. Physicians said that his condition is improving.

Ruby Bradley Is Beaten by McCoy

Holyoke, Jan. 28.—Johnny McCoy of Buffalo, N. Y., took the decision over Ruby Bradley of Holyoke in the ten-round main bout at the Valley Arena. McCoy came through fast in the closing rounds to clinch the verdict.
 Roland Lecuyer of Holyoke was given the decision over Johnny McCoy in the three-round preliminary bout. McCoy defeated Martin of Boston, took the fight to the sixth, Earl Duquette of Pittsfield won an eight-round verdict over Stanley Winery of Lawrence.

Pete Latzo Beaten in 10-Round Bout

Philadelphia, Jan. 28.—Billy Jones of Philadelphia, Pa., won the decision over Pete Latzo of Scranton, Pa., in a ten-round bout at the Valley Arena. Latzo was the winner of the welterweight crown, 1929, 1930, 1931.

MISS MARGARET BLAKE

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 28.—Frank Bruen, who manages the race track here, tells me that the attendance at the track has been greater so far this year than it was a year ago, declared Mr. Bruen today.
 We are selling 80 to 100 more tickets each day, said Bruen. The people at the track all seem to have plenty of money. The only ones who are dissatisfied with conditions at the track are the bookmakers, and they have been taking it on the chin. And nobody appears to be worried when a bookmaker's horse loses a few races.

Jack Conway a kate of close friends of the late Harry Houdini, when Shockey and Ross took on February 27. The event will also mark the dedication of the new stadium at Miami City which will cost $100,000 when completed.
 "Have turned down several attractions for the use of the stadium before the Shockey-Ross match. One was from Elwood Fisher, who is promoting a bout in which John Sonnenberg will defend his wrestling title. We feel that the opening of the stadium will sell well and fall in with the opening of the stadium in additional receipts."

FOUND Mr. Boston playing golf yesterday at the Bay Shore golf club with Jack Shockey, Johnny Buckley, and Bob Finn, Boston sportsman. Shockey, with a snappy 88, was low man. Mr. Boston refused to reveal his score. He remarked there were several spectators still to be heard from.

WILLIAM PIKE, 37 years of age and Mrs. Shockey's grandfather took his first spin in an airplane the other day, remarked Mr. Boston. "I have experience any unusual accident during my flight," said Mr. Pike, but I would not care to see Jack go up and fall. He has beaten Scott and Schmeling.

ARRY TOBIN of Jamaica Plain was Jack Shockey, Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Buckley, and Bob Finn, Boston sportsman. Shockey, with a snappy 88, was low man. Mr. Boston refused to reveal his score. He remarked there were several spectators still to be heard from.

THE Money Pike, who took a look at the water for $30 to $50 a day, is booked solid, for February. Apparently everybody wants to book in the stock market crash.
 "I met Tom Mix, the movie actor, taking the sun in the garden at the Money Pike. He told me he was looking for a place to stay for a bedroom and sitting room. The odds are extra."

THE new hotel at the beach is a result, the bargain hunters have located in Miami City and at Coral Gables.

After paying $500 for his family himself at a local hotel for five days, Jack Shockey hired a house for $500 for the season. Water, electric light and telephone are included in the price. "Johnny Buckley confessed he had $12,000 for a five-year duration."

THE real estate boom may be over in Florida, but those persons who rent places here are still enjoying it. The Miami Beach Kennel track is planning a bout for February 27. It plans to pit Prince Carnage and Johnny King against different opponents in a double windup. Stribling is expected to box here, but Carnage has not come to terms with the local promoters.
 The Italian received $10,000 for a bout over Bob Brown of New York last Friday night and is probably not a fighter any more. His services that the local promoters will cure to pay.

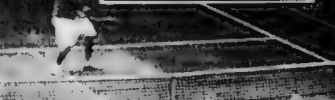

THE new summer must play 25 holes of golf, a dip in the surf and attend the dog races.

Return of Lacoste Dims U.S. Cup Hopes

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP).—Tennis fans who have been basing their predictions of an American victory in Davis Cup competition on the expected absence of Rene Lacoste, Frenchman, will have to revise their arguments or abandon them altogether.
 Lacoste, so Big Bill Tilden says, the magazine, American Lawn Tennis, has fully recovered from a illness that forced him out of a Davis Cup challenge round last year and again will be an active performer in most of the big international tournaments, as well as the Davis Cup contest.
 With illness keeping Lacoste out of the Wimbledon and Davis Cup play last year, Jean Borotra in Henri Cochet had managed to beat off the American effort to retain the trophy.
 With Lacoste back in the fray, American fans will be that much more difficult this year.

Sonnenberg Wins After 72 Minutes
 Manchester, N. H., Jan. 28.—Ous Sonnenberg, generally recognized world's heavyweight wrestling champion, took 72 minutes to lose Stanley Peyton with his flying tackle here. The local wrestler was unable to continue because his knee was dislocated by the fall.

Sonnenberg Faces Loss of Mat Crown
DYNAMITE GUS SONNENBERG, heavyweight wrestling champion of the world, will meet his hardest test in several months on Thursday night, when he will defend his title against big Joe Stecher, king of the scissors, in a finish match at the Arena.
 Sonnenberg has been hard-pressed in recent matches. Pat McMill stopped his flying tackle in his tracks and thoroughly outwrestled the bulky title champion. Bob "Bibbs" McCoy met him at his own game, mat flying tackle, with flying tackle, and all but battered Sonnenberg to defeat.
 Twice Sonny had the lack of all champions, but it is the opinion of wrestling sharpsharps that McMill and McCoy could so completely outwrestle him, Stecher can't win out-wrestle him but rip the crown from his brow.

Big Shift Coming in Harvard Court Team
TOMMY FARRELL, star forward on Harvard's basketball team, was declared eligible for the remainder of the season today, and as a result a shake up is looked for in the Harvard court lineup.
 Farrell was a stellar performer for the past two seasons for the Cantabs but was kept out of the lineup this season due to scholastic difficulties.
 Now that he has been reinstated, however, Coach Ed Wachter plans to revamp the lineup.
 Farrell is said to will go to right forward in place of Poch Mahady, who has been holding the post. Mahady is expected to go to the defense area, playing in combination with Jud Rios.
 This means that unless Tommy Nido plays superlative basketball in the coming practice sessions and in the Holy Cross' match on Feb. 13, Harvard has two weeks in which to prepare for Holy Cross. Wachter will try various combinations of forwards and defense pairs to find his strongest aggregation to face the Crusaders.

Billiard Tourney to Open Tonight
 John LaRocca of Wollaston and Harold A. Boyce of Medford will meet in the first match of the New England Class A amateur three-cushion billiard tournament in the Twentieth Century Room, 63 Summer St., at 8:30 tonight.
 Other players who are in are J. J. Jeffries of Auburndale, Owen J. Leaven of Dorchester, Ervin O. Tucker of Dedham and N. C. Lo-Coco of Arlington. Each match will be for 25 points.

Bass Names Referee for Bout With Abad
 St. Louis, Jan. 28 (AP).—J. Harry Erie, of Jersey City, who is the first out-of-state man to referee in the Henry Bass-Davey Abad fight at the new Coliseum Monday night, was named by the Philadelphia promoter.

Chick Evans Enters Pan-American Joust
 Edgewater Park, Miss., Jan. 28 (AP).—The third annual Pan-American amateur joust tournament today drew a distinguished entry list. Down from Chicago for the first joust, was Fred Lamproch, the veteran Chick Evans, leader of the competitors.
 Others were Gus Novotny, Chicago, who won the Pan-American title last year; Johnny Loftman and Russ Martin, Chicago; Jack Westlund, Fresno; and a champion of the South, J. Perry, of Birmingham, southern champion; J. C. Wadley, Texas; and Fred Lamproch, New Orleans, former intercollegiate champion; and Charles W. Kittelman, Greenwood, Miss., former Mississippi state champion.

Simpson to Compete in N. Y. A. C. Games
 New York, Jan. 28.—The New York Athletic Club announced that George Simpson, of Ohio State University, the only sprinter on record to run 100 yards in 9.5 seconds, will compete in the N. Y. A. C. games at Madison Square Garden, February 17.
 As opponents for Simpson in a 100-yard sprint, the management hopes to bring together such sprinters as Jimmy Doyle, Holy Cross, national and intercollegiate indoor sprint champion; Krim, Cleveland; O. Krim, Cleveland; Doyle, Penn; Hunsley, N. Y. A. C.; and Earl, New York University.

Tad Wieman Picked to Succeed Spears
 Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 28 (NS).—Edwin E. "Tad" Wieman will very likely succeed Dr. Clarence Spears as football coach at the University of Minnesota, according to preliminary reports here today. Sonnenberg Faces Loss of Mat Crown
DYNAMITE GUS SONNENBERG, heavyweight wrestling champion of the world, will meet his hardest test in several months on Thursday night, when he will defend his title against big Joe Stecher, king of the scissors, in a finish match at the Arena.
 Sonnenberg has been hard-pressed in recent matches. Pat McMill stopped his flying tackle in his tracks and thoroughly outwrestled the bulky title champion. Bob "Bibbs" McCoy met him at his own game, mat flying tackle, with flying tackle, and all but battered Sonnenberg to defeat.
 Twice Sonny had the lack of all champions, but it is the opinion of wrestling sharpsharps that McMill and McCoy could so completely outwrestle him, Stecher can't win out-wrestle him but rip the crown from his brow.

ALTERNATE for the Pittsburgh Pirates' victory for the season only equal the losses suffered by the Bruins, there will be a merry battle staged at the Garden tonight, when these teams meet for their fourth encounter of the year.

The Stanley Cup holders are not making any undue effort to eclipse the Bruins' record, established by the 1926-27 season, as much as they would appreciate a 12-5 setting up of another man's record.

In Authority on Problems of Love

Love and Marriage
Love can bring the greatest happiness or the greatest sorrow. There is only one complicated human joy—the marriage of two who love each other with all their hearts and souls.

Happy marriage is the natural result of every man and woman who are fortunate in requiring love
all too common an experience. Not all love is happy.
Remuneration is often the quest of the trail of romance.

Since love holds within itself such possibilities of suffering and joy, how thoughtfully we should try to be kind in our friendships and affections.

Not every friendship can lead to true love.
Betty and Betty, let us say, are good pals. Betty loves Betty and Betty is fond of Betty in a friendly sort of way. Then she meets Jack.
They are attracted to each other strongly. Betty and Jack are very much in love. Betty owns a very tall attraction to Betty under these circumstances—the obligation to be very kind in the manner in which she gradually drops the association with him and tells him it is "for" to tell him of the deeper affection that has come to girls too seldom think of the feelings of a man they do not wish to love.

"I told Bob I never wanted to see him again, when I met Jack," Betty is likely to write to me. And she is likely to add also, "Now I hate him after all I've done for him, not for Jack. How can I win back Bob?"

Break gradually with a friend who has been a good pal when one all more desires to monopolize your thoughts and your heart. Be kind and courteous to the old friendship. Keep "steady company" with him as you are with the new.

At last, at the very start gradually encourage the one gradually explain to the other one how things stand. And be kind.

A young man who had gone about steadily with one girl for many months found himself in love with another and realized that the former association could not live.

Power invitations—a less elaborate Christmas gift—frank, friendly letters regarding his feeling for her—all these kindly, tactful measures lessened the blow to the girl's heart and affection.

Her thoughts naturally in the desire of other young men. Meanwhile, his new friend, Betty, believed him, and all other friends in former days. It was the bond of many a "belle," as the popular girl of the day is called.

That she had received doses of protection to her from Betty, who brought about this possibly, as a savage might display his collection of scalp to show his prowess.

Thoughtful consideration of others is one of the highest of resonance and marriage that I doubt whether real love could exist at the time, under any circumstances, be other than very kind.

Tom Critical on Morning After

"Late hours and liquor and lipstick don't improve your looks," Tom tells Lovejoy on the morning after the party.

Lovejoy -- Serial by Beatrice Burton

It will be my fault if I ever am kind, believe me, you—
"Borning and reading at him, she took her clean underclothes and stockings from her dressing table and put on her bathrobe.

"Norris," she called loudly as she started out of the room on the way to her bath, "I'm going to be late today, dear! Tom wants me in all day, bed! There's a light, eager sound to his voice. It sounded as if he really was glad to stay.

Lovejoy shampooed her bright hair after she had her bath.
When it was dry she dressed her bed to get into bed.
The room was beautifully clean.
Norris had made the beds and put everything in apple-pie order.
The shades were pulled halfway down the window and the light was soft and warm.

"There's Tom!" Lovejoy said, her eyes on his empty bed.
"He's in the living room, reading the paper. I made a fire there," said Norris, who had just heard her singing while he took his showerbath.

Still later he passed the open door of her room dressed in a clean white shirt and a pair of disreputable-looking corduroy trousers that he called his Sunday clothes. He spent an hour in the tiny garage behind the house, tinkering with his car.

Then he brought Lovejoy a tray with his Sunday dinner on a tray.
Chicken, pie and lima beans and fruit salad and coffee.

"I'm glad to have you in the house," Lovejoy told her with a little laugh, and when he was so clean and sweet that Tom's goodnight was over.

Norris laughed, too. But a soft flush came over her face, making her eyes look larger and brighter than they really were.

It really was a joy to have her in the house. It was pleasant to be in bed, Lovejoy told herself drowsily, and knew that the lady was safe and comfortable, that the dinner was well-cooked and that the whole house was in perfect order.

I should never have let her leave the house when she was so tired, she thought. I should have kept her here to help me, and Tom would surely have had to pay her wages!

Lovejoy had to make up his mind to have some help in the house.
Because I'm sick and tired of being a human vacuum cleaner, Lovejoy said to herself, clapping her hands with her fork. From now on, she said, she would have some help in the house.

Hilda Anderson came to work at the Nicholson's little house on the following Wednesday.
She came as maid-of-all-work, and all she asked was $2 a week.

"We're getting her for practically nothing because she's so good," said Tom.

Old Age Is No Longer a Spectre

TIME was when a woman of

The average woman of 50 is

Compulsory Insurance

FARE and away the most significant thing about the report of the Special Commission on Motor Vehicle Insurance, it seems to this newspaper, is that it contains NO suggestion that the compulsory insurance law should be abandoned.

This law has been to such an extent the target of the propaganda that there has sometimes appeared to be danger that the body of the people might forget the reason for its enactment.

COMPULSORY insurance was decided upon because in so many cases the motorists responsible for killings or maimings were found to be financially irresponsible.

Some of them did not own the overcoats they wore, let alone the cars they drove.

It was to put an end to this condition, and to protect widows and orphans, among others, that Massachusetts decided upon compulsory liability insurance.

The Special Commission does not even hint that the experiment is a failure. To that extent, at least, we believe its report will have the support of the public.

Of many constructive suggestions contained in this report, two in particular, stand out for consideration.

One is that hereafter rates shall be considered to be "maximum" rates, the insurance companies having the right to cut under them. As things stand at present, the companies complete only in the matter of "service."

Again, expressing the opinion that many cars now on the highways are unfit for operation, the Registrar Goodwin spoke of them as "junk," you remember—the Commission recommends that no motor vehicle shall be registered unless its owner produces a certificate that it is in "good mechanical condition."

The Commission opposes Mr. Goodwin's State Fund plan, as everyone expected it would. It is "loosely drawn"; it contains "structural defects"; it is contrary to the policy of the Commonwealth and the interests of the public; and what it contemplates, after all, is not really a "State fund," because the Supreme Court has held that neither the cash nor the credit of the Commonwealth would be available for use by its managers. All of this according to the special commissioners.

Upon these controversial features of the report we shall have more light when they are debated before committees and in the Legislature. Inasmuch as the State Fund question eventually will have a place on the ballot, it behooves the citizen to study them so far as he is able.

Meanwhile, we can all rejoice that compulsory insurance is here to stay, for the protection of those who would have NO PROTECTION WITHOUT IT.

Repudiate Opium Bloc

American Delegates to Geneva Conference Ought to Walk Out Again if It Prevails

THERE ARE TO HAVE another of those opium conferences at Geneva, and the lineup is exactly what it has been all over the conference.

"On one side we have the manufacturing nations"—manufacturing TEN TIMES as much narcotic derivatives as the world needs for medical and scientific purposes—on the other side we have the victim nations—not all of which by any means are invited to attend.

On one side we have gentlemen, like Sir Malcolm Delaigue, who talk beautifully and naively, but get very little done, who point out that England has always favored limitation of opium production but DO NOT point out that the limitation in Britain's India is 188 grains to each customer EVERY day. And alongside Sir Malcolm we have the Swiss representatives sitting elbow to elbow with a representative of Swiss factories that turn out FIVE TIMES as much narcotics in one year as the world can use.

Refreshingly on the other side from Sir Malcolm is Signor Cavasconi from Italy, who is constantly "out of order," constantly speaking "irrelevantly," always wanting to know "why don't we DO something? Why don't we REALLY cut down the manufacture and importation of opium products in this drug-ridden world?"

Only ONE nation has taken that drug convention seriously. That nation is Spain, which is a "victim nation" which does not manufacture narcotics and which sincerely wants the traffic stopped. The Spanish delegates went home and secured the passage of an effective law. That law has been in effect for fourteen months and the manufacturing nations do not like it. It is called the "stipulated supply" law. Each year the Spanish Government estimates the amount of opium it will need and publicly announces from which country it will buy its supply. The law is enforced and that's all the narcotic that can be legally imported to Spain.

They are going to talk about that law at this Geneva conference. They are going to discuss it and not what the delegates SAY, but what they DO will be the test of their sincerity. And if they don't do the right thing, if they hem and haw and wink at the opium bloc our American delegates ought to WALK OUT AGAIN! They ought to make the American people—and the American people will support them.

H. G. Wells Writes on "The Science of Life"

In Collaboration With Prof. Julian Huxley and Geo. P. Wells

THE bodies of Coelenterates are soft, although they often make rigid houses to live in, or frameworks to live round, and the group is characterized by their peculiar living in capsules, or plan-like, and flower-like, so that they have been called the Zoophyta, or plan-like, objects two miles.

There are three classes of Coelenterates, of which the most important is the Hydrozoa, which includes Obelia.

The numbers of this class are all variants, so to speak, upon the Obelia theme; the kind of life they lead, the kind of structure they build, the kind of food they eat, the kind of reproduction they use, the kind of environment they live in, the kind of life they lead, the kind of structure they build, the kind of food they eat, the kind of reproduction they use, the kind of environment they live in.

Some of the most interesting of these variants are the Obelia, which are found in the sea, and the Hydra, which are found in fresh water.

Obelia is a colonial organism, which means that it is made up of many individuals, each of which is a complete organism in itself, but which are all connected together by a common system of tubes, or canals, through which they exchange food and other materials.

Hydra is a solitary organism, which means that it is made up of only one individual, which is a complete organism in itself.

Obelia is a colonial organism, which means that it is made up of many individuals, each of which is a complete organism in itself, but which are all connected together by a common system of tubes, or canals, through which they exchange food and other materials.

Hydra is a solitary organism, which means that it is made up of only one individual, which is a complete organism in itself.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

SOMEWHERE, it is always wondering if the sacredness of the home is becoming obsolete.

Nonsense! Whether it's a Park Ave. mansion, or a kitchenette apartment, the home will never lose its sacredness.

Every married woman knows that the "sacredness of the home" consists largely in the fact that the lamp arch and the best reading lamp are "sacred" to the man of the house.

That the broadest bath towel, the pet back brush and the shaving cabinet are "sacred" to Father. That the liver, the second-hand and the browned skin on the breast of the fowl are "sacred" to Dad.

That the desk in the den and the undisturbed morning newspaper are sacred to him.

The cream of the quart and the mallow on the ice are his by divine right.

That the front door key and the garage lock are sacred to his use, and the ladder and the lawn-mower sacred possessions never to be "fiddled with."

The Sunday is twice sacred to him—and the sporting page must be preserved undisturbed until he peruses it.

Sunday morning is sacred to his beauty sleep, the Sunday dinner to his fluctuating appetite and Sunday evening to his nap, his whims, or his amusements.

The car tools are sacred to his royal competency.

The family tub is sacred to his maternal splash and the vestibule light to his nocturnal home-coming.

The furnace is sacred to his tinkering and the shovel his exclusive property. The hammer and the screwdriver positively radiate holy privileges.

The sipping equipment in the garage and the fishing pole upon its beam burn with righteous fire, and any wife expects to be struck dead if she irreverently tampers with his bait box, looking for a screw or something.

Eight a. m. is sacred to his breakfast, 8:30 p. m. to his dinner, and 7:30 to the rites and ceremony that accompany his after-dinner cigar.

Woman has always been credited with "preserving the sanctity of the home"; but it is really man who manages to surround himself with everything in it, from the shoe horn and the hot water to the car and the radio, with the glimmer of sacred possession and royal privilege.

The very, all the sanctity of the home is in the man.

An Airplane to Make Us Think

TO BREAK THE NON-STOP RECORD

THIS Government keeps talking sweet peace and enthusiastically trying to get its nose into a League of Nations Court in which it has no business.

The Government of Great Britain would be glad enough to have the United States come over and put itself into the hands of a Court and a League controlled by Britain, France and Italy.

But while this Government talks peace and turns itself into a "John," trying to join everything in Europe, the British go ahead building weapons that will keep Americans and others at a distance, whenever that seems desirable.

Above you goes Britain's latest "point to point" airplane. It is a huge monoplane, measuring 82 feet across the wings, body length 48½ feet.

It interests this country because it is built to fly 8000 miles without stopping to take on fuel.

This interesting machine, if it comes up to expectations, could fly from England to America, visit half a dozen of the largest American cities, then fly back to England without stopping for fuel.

Such a "non-stop" monoplane would be extremely useful in war. As a matter of fact, it would need to fly back to England. After doing its work here, it would simply go a few miles north to the border and land on British territory in Canada.

We know that we are not going to have any war with England, for many reasons.

We don't want it. England does not want it. But what England can build, others can build.

A flock of airplanes, like this one, could come across the Pacific, without interference, visit Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland, Seattle, and then cross into Canada, to be interned, "for the period of the war."

If there were enough planes of this sort, flying around, dropping explosives and deadly poisonous gases, the war would not last long.

Airplanes are cheap, the price of one battleship could build one thousand huge, all metal, three-engine planes.

What chance would cities have against a thousand planes dropping bombs and poison gas? And, by the way, what chance would a fleet of battleships have against such an air fleet?

We ought to talk less about peace when there isn't any peace, and think more about building the right kinds of airplanes, and submarines. They would enable us to command peace.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—The American stage is a shy of prima donna. The daily lady with personality who can skilfully handle top notes is scarce, scarce and scarce.

The remarkable reception to Evelyn Laye, English prima donna, recently, presents a possible view of the undiscovered Yankees' darling.

Two showing unusual promise in the past few years were immediately put under grand opera contracts, and there is at this time no likely prospect on the musical horizon. The amazing comeback of Fritz Scherl at the age of 50 emphasized the distinct appeal of the stardom.

Any number of prima donnas actually display remarkable voices, but lack that brightest piquancy and grace that distinguish Others. One of the great obstacles for producers in exploiting prima donna is their aptitude and rich and marvellous. The late Victor Herbert, who composed so many vehicles for them, once said: "Everybody, including the property man, is a little bit of a prima donna."

No type of stage star inspires so much sentimentality. Moon-struck pairs will court front rows night after night and clout at stage bows. They are not, however, utterly gaga, penning mighty notes and running up extravagant florid bills.

There has matrimony so frequently interrupted careers of beautiful dancers on the great stage. "No marriage!"

But the stage is a lonely place. The producer can save a little under a dozen a day. "I have averaged a little under a dozen a day," he said. "And during most of the year, I am surrounded by a crowd of men."

Every time I decide to quit smoking somebody gives me a cigarette. I have been smoking for years. I have averaged a little under a dozen a day. "I have averaged a little under a dozen a day," he said. "And during most of the year, I am surrounded by a crowd of men."
